SK Law North West, led by solicitor and higher rights advocate Sarrah Kerslake and supported by national Legal 500 firm Richard Nelson LLP, is launching "Law & Latte" at Beach Road Bakehouse in Whitehaven.

The event will take place on Friday, October 7 from 10am to 12pm.

The event aims to make specialist legal support more accessible by offering advice in a casual, community environment.

Ms Kerslake said: "I'm excited to make seeking legal advice more accessible for our corner of West Cumbria through SK Law North West.

"By bringing law into everyday community spaces, I hope people will feel confident seeking specialist support and see that speaking to a solicitor doesn't need to be formal or intimidating."

Attendees can meet Ms Kerslake, take part in a short "Know Your Rights" quiz, and learn about her free weekly advice clinics at The Bus Station in Whitehaven.

The clinics provide support on criminal matters, investigations by public bodies, including local authorities, the Environment Agency and the Health and Safety Executive, as well as coroners' investigations and inquests.

Ms Kerslake said the event forms part of a wider effort to improve access to specialist legal advice across West Cumbria by creating opportunities for residents to seek information and support in a relaxed environment.

Beach Road Bakehouse, run by Gina Goulding, has become known as a hub for community projects and collaboration in Whitehaven.
